Dear Hiring Team,

I am applying for the Senior Product Manager role you have posted through Halian. The brief describes a strategic leadership position over a consumer-facing mobile application serving millions of users in a regulated environment, and that combination of scale, compliance, and consumer product thinking is where I have spent the last decade as a Product Manager.

At CLINET Platforms I owned the product roadmap for a mobile patient application piloted across hospitals, operating inside healthcare compliance constraints while keeping a five-person team moving. The roadmap was overloaded; I cut it to the top ten percent of features against agreed success measures and user acceptance rose more than fivefold. At Bundesagentur für Arbeit I managed a national-scale analytics platform for policymakers and researchers, serving as Deputy IT Security Officer and steering the product through a full infrastructure migration, a UI relaunch, and a major ETL overhaul, all in parallel, all while maintaining data governance requirements. These are not adjacent experiences; they are the same operating conditions your posting describes.

The posting explicitly asks for a leader who sets direction rather than runs delivery, and who can align diverse stakeholder groups around a shared product vision. At Rohde & Schwarz I did exactly that: I owned strategy and priority for the FCAS AI and data platform while a cross-functional team of fifteen engineers and data scientists ran execution. I redirected the product strategy mid-cycle based on instrumented workflow analysis, the visually polished UI-led path recorded zero clicks; the developer-code-first path drove a 200 percent increase in pipeline runs. That is the kind of data-driven product decision-making the posting calls for.

I am an EU citizen currently based in Berlin and actively targeting Abu Dhabi. Relocation is not a compromise for me; the UAE is a priority location. I am prepared to be on-site from the first day of engagement.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss the role in more detail. Please find my CV below.

Best regards, Philipp Hilbert
