§ WHY THINKMARKETS

ThinkMarkets sits at the intersection of financial technology and 24/7 global market access, a product surface where latency, reliability, and usability are not trade-offs but simultaneous requirements. The posting specifically calls out AI-assisted product discovery and a working knowledge of Claude and Claude Code, which matches how I already work daily rather than an aspiration. What interests me most is the mandate to identify LLM opportunities across the ThinkTrader platform: that is the kind of forward-looking product scope that compounds over time, not a feature sprint with a defined end. That is exactly the environment where careful discovery and fast iteration both matter, and where I have learned to do my best work.

§ SIDE PROJECT

PHOENIX882.COM GITHUB.COM/HILBERTP →

A personal crypto trading-strategy backtesting engine, built and operated solo.

- Reconstructs historical order-book dynamics and executes strategy logic across tick data.
 - Integrates with live venues including Hyperliquid and Bitget for position and P&L reconciliation.
 - Underpins active trading across perpetual futures, spot, and DEX aggregation (Jupiter, 1inch).
 - Directly relevant to ThinkMarkets: informs product intuitions about execution quality, slippage, price impact, and what traders actually need from a multi-asset platform.

§ HOW I WOULD WORK AT THINKMARKETS

First weeks, concrete.

WEEK 1

Listen, map, find the gaps.

Shadow the ThinkTrader backlog refinement sessions and stakeholder reviews, map the current AI-assisted tooling in use against the posting's stated vision, and identify where requirements are ambiguous enough to slow engineering.

WEEK 2

Sharpen the backlog.

Rewrite the top-priority user stories and epics with explicit acceptance criteria and technical constraints, filling the gaps surfaced in week one.

Ship and close loops.

Own sprint planning end-to-end, unblock QA on definition-of-done questions, and set up a lightweight data and user-feedback loop to drive the next prioritisation cycle.

I COVER LETTER

Dear ThinkMarkets Hiring Team,

I am applying for the Product Owner role. I have spent thirteen years owning product backlogs and roadmaps in regulated environments, defence AI, public-sector analytics, insurance, healthcare, fintech, and a payments startup I took from zero to acquisition inside the girocard ecosystem. Throughout that time the common thread has been translating complex technical and business constraints into requirements that engineering teams can actually act on, and doing it fast enough to keep delivery moving.

What draws me specifically to ThinkMarkets is the explicit mandate to leverage AI tools, Claude and Claude Code are named directly in the posting, for product discovery, requirements drafting, and documentation. This is not a future-state ambition for me; it is my current workflow. I use Claude Code to draft and iterate on user stories, generate acceptance criteria edge cases, and prototype requirements documents before a single meeting is booked. I use Lovable and Framer for rapid front-end prototyping to validate ideas cheaply before committing engineering capacity. The result is faster, better-defined backlog items and fewer surprises in sprint review.

My fintech background is directly applicable. I co-founded Kvitt Payment Solutions, a mobile P2P payments product that was acquired by Sparkasse and operated inside the girocard ecosystem. I understand payment flows, PSP integration, and the compliance and security constraints that shape what you can ship in a regulated financial environment. I also actively trade across centralised and decentralised venues, Hyperliquid, Bitget, Jupiter, 1inch, and I have built my own backtesting engine and trading bots. I know what traders need from a multi-asset platform from the inside, not from a user-research deck.

On the delivery side, I have worked across Scrum, Kanban, and SAFe environments. At Rohde & Schwarz I introduced GitOps delivery with ArgoCD across a multinational team, cutting rollout time from days to 30 minutes and making the platform hotfix-capable. At CLINET Platforms I halved a roadmap that a three-person team could not deliver and watched user acceptance rise fivefold. At EMIL Group I restructured an 18-person delivery organisation into three lean teams, cut near-total attrition to a single departure, and shipped the Claims Center from concept to production. Strong stakeholder management and JIRA-based backlog discipline were the operating system in all three.

I am confident I can step into the Product Owner role at ThinkMarkets, own the backlog from day one, and bring a working AI-native toolkit that accelerates requirements, discovery, and documentation across the ThinkTrader platform. I would welcome a conversation.

Best regards, Philipp Hilbert
