§ WHY LIBRA SOLUTIONS

Libra sits at an intersection I know well: a complex operational domain, compliance constraints that make shortcuts expensive, and an internal platform that has to earn adoption from people who already know the workflows better than any PM does on day one. The C3 case management platform spans underwriting, servicing, payment processing, and document management, four domains where a wrong requirement costs more than a delayed feature. What caught my attention specifically is the mandate to define guardrails and fallback paths for AI-enabled experiences: that is the PM work I find most interesting right now, where design judgment about human oversight has measurable operational consequences. That is exactly the environment where my strengths compound.

§ AI-NATIVE STACK

- Lovable, rapid front-end prototyping

- n8n, agentic workflow design and automation
 - Gamma.app, stakeholder-ready documentation

§ SIDE PROJECT

CONSTRUCT8 GITHUB.COM/HILBERTP →

Two-sided B2B staffing marketplace, zero to one, built and operated solo.

- Matches construction firms with workers, removing the headhunter from the hire while protecting both sides with an anonymity-until-payment model.
 - WhatsApp and Telegram as the product surface; LLM agents across the full funnel so a single operator runs day-to-day operations.
 - Funnel and conversion analysis in SQL; full discovery, design, build, and rollout owned end-to-end.
 - Demonstrates exactly the capability C3 needs: translating ambiguous operational workflows into a lean, AI-augmented product a small team can maintain.

§ HOW I WOULD WORK AT LIBRA SOLUTIONS

First weeks, concrete.

WEEK 1

Listen, map, find the gaps.

Shadow operations across underwriting, servicing, and document management in C3; map the existing workflow in writing, identify where the backlog does not reflect what users actually do, and establish a working relationship with each engineering squad lead.

WEEK 2

Slice, validate, sequence.

Run a structured prioritisation pass over the backlog with each squad: flag items that lack clear acceptance criteria or measurable success metrics, and propose a first sequenced pipeline ready for sprint planning.

WEEK 3+

Ship, measure, iterate.

Drive the first initiative through the full cycle, discovery, requirements, UAT planning, rollout, and a documented outcome check, establishing the iterate/stop/pivot rhythm that keeps the roadmap honest.

I COVER LETTER

Dear Hiring Team,

I am writing to apply for the Senior Product Manager role on C3 at Libra Solutions. With 13 years owning product in regulated industries, insurance, healthcare, public-sector analytics, fintech, and defence AI, and a hands-on record shipping internal operations platforms, I am confident I can own C3's product strategy and deliver measurable outcomes from day one.

The role description maps closely to work I have done in practice. At EMIL Group I shipped the Claims Center from concept to production in an insurance B2B SaaS environment where compliance, broker trust, and underwriting logic all had to be reconciled before a line of code was written. At Bundesagentur für Arbeit I owned a national analytics platform as both Product Manager and Deputy IT Security Officer, balancing a continuous pipeline of refined and validated work for engineering squads against strict data governance requirements. In both roles I defined success metrics upfront, tracked shipped-feature outcomes, and made documented iterate-or-stop decisions rather than treating launch as the finish line.

On AI integration I work at the level the posting asks for: I use Claude daily for discovery synthesis, competitive analysis, and requirements drafting; Claude Code and GitHub Copilot for rapid prototyping and LLM-assisted spec generation; and n8n for agentic workflow design. Critically, I understand where LLMs fail, hallucination in low-data domains, brittleness at edge cases, confidence without calibration, and I design fallback paths and human oversight checkpoints into AI-enabled features before they reach UAT, not after. For an internal platform like C3, where operational staff act on AI-surfaced decisions, that design discipline is not optional.

The domains C3 spans, underwriting, negotiations, servicing, payment processing, and document management, combine regulatory complexity with high workflow specificity. I have shipped in each of these adjacents separately: payment flows at Kvitt (P2P fintech, acquired by Sparkasse), document management systems at both projuncta and CLINET Platforms, and complex case-state logic in the Claims Center at EMIL. I will not pretend to know Libra's specific vertical on day one, but I know how to build domain expertise quickly through structured subject matter expert engagement and workflow observation, which the posting rightly lists as core PM activities.

I am based in Berlin, work fully remote, and am available at four weeks' notice. I would welcome a conversation about how my background maps to the C3 roadmap.

Best regards, Philipp Hilbert
