§ WHY GLOBANT

Globant's digital transformation programmes sit at exactly the intersection I find most useful: a consulting delivery model, a large financial services client, and the expectation that a Product Manager can hold the strategic and the operational thread at once. The UAE banking sector is mid-stride through one of the more ambitious digitisation cycles in the region, which means the problems are real and the stakes are visible. The explicit call for someone who can work across Design, Engineering, Data, and Business, not just manage a backlog, describes how I have operated across every role I have held. That combination of consulting pace and regulated-industry depth is where my strengths compound.

§ SIDE PROJECT

CONSTRUCT8 GITHUB.COM/HILBERTP →

A two-sided B2B staffing marketplace built and operated solo.

- Matches construction firms with workers, removing the headhunter from the hire cycle.
 - Anonymity-until-payment model protects both parties until mutual commitment; WhatsApp and Telegram as the primary product surface.
 - LLM agents across the full funnel so a single operator runs day-to-day operations.
 - Demonstrates zero-to-one product execution relevant to any digital transformation programme building net-new customer journeys.

§ HOW I WOULD WORK AT GLOBANT

First weeks, concrete.

WEEK 1

Listen, map, find the gaps.

Embed with the client squad to map the existing customer journeys, identify where the current digital platform breaks the user's mental model, and locate the stakeholders whose sign-off determines whether anything ships.

WEEK 2

Slice and align.

Draft a prioritised backlog from the discovery findings, validate it against the client's stated success metrics, and align Engineering, Design, and Data on the first sprint scope.

WEEK 3+

Ship, measure, close.

Drive the first release to production, instrument the outcome metrics agreed up front, and close the loop with stakeholders so the next increment starts from evidence rather than assumption.

I COVER LETTER

Dear Trish Villena and the Globant Hiring Team,

I am writing in response to the Product Manager opening for Globant's digital transformation programme with a leading financial services organisation in the UAE. With thirteen years of product ownership across regulated industries, insurance, public-sector analytics, healthcare, fintech, and defence AI, I have spent most of my career in exactly the environment this role describes: complex organisations, compliance constraints, cross-functional squads, and the pressure to deliver digital products that actually change how a business operates.

At EMIL Group I inherited an 18-person delivery organisation that was losing both its senior engineers and its client trust simultaneously. I restructured it into three focused teams, reversed near-total attrition, and shipped the Claims Center from concept to production. At the Bundesagentur für Arbeit I managed the national labour-market analytics platform, introduced Dagster and dbt to eliminate manual quarterly data imports, and carried a full UI relaunch alongside a major ETL migration, all while serving as Deputy IT Security Officer. These were not clean greenfield projects; they were the kind of high-stakes, multi-stakeholder programmes that a financial services digital transformation resembles most.

On the customer journey and UX side: at CLINET Platforms I cut a mobile patient app roadmap to its top 10% of features, measured against agreed acceptance criteria, and watched user acceptance rise more than fivefold as a result. At Qcrypt AG I owned the product architecture for a quantum-secure encryption product and drove it to enterprise buyers who demanded a sub-two-minute installation path. I understand that good product management in regulated environments means holding the user's journey and the compliance boundary in the same hand.

My fintech background is direct: Kvitt Payment Solutions, a mobile P2P group-payment product I co-founded, was acquired and operated by Sparkasse inside the girocard ecosystem. I have shipped payment flows, managed PSP integrations, and navigated the expectations of financial services partners. The UAE context is one I take seriously, I have actively studied the region's digital banking landscape and am willing to relocate to Dubai or Abu Dhabi for the right programme.

I would welcome a conversation about how my background maps to the client's specific transformation agenda. Thank you for considering my application.

Best regards, Philipp Hilbert
